The latest dates from the Army of the Potomac received by the War Department this forenoon, are to half-past six of Saturday morning. The 5th and 6th corps had advanced by the left during the night, and were to have attacked the enemy at daylight; but no sound of battle had been heard, and it was conjectured that Lee had withdrawn during the night. Our advance from the direction in which it was made, would compel him to fall back on Lynchburg. The rebel papers regret that our forces under Generals Crooks and Averill had destroyed the great bridge over New River, on the Lynchburg Railroad, and also destroyed a large extent of track, and a great quantity of supplies. General Sheridan, with his force, reached Turkey Bend, on the James river, yesterday at 3 o'clock, and formed his junction with Gen

Butler's forces.

MAY 14-11 P. M .- Official dispatches have been received from Gen. Grant down to 6.30 p. m. of yesterday.

Lee's Position. The enemy has fallen back about four miles and held their position. There was no fighting yesterday. Progress of Gen. Sherman.

Dispatches from Gen. Sherman state that his movements had compelled the enemy to evacuate Dalton, and our forces were now on the rear and flank of the enemy. The operations of Gen. Butler are detailed in the following telegrams:

From Major General Butler.

HALF-WAY HOUSE, 8 a. m., May 14, 1864.—

Hon. Edwin M. Stanton, Secretary of War: We are still before the base of the enemy's works at Drury's Bluff, Fort Darling. The enemy are here in force. Gen. Gilmore, by a flank movement, with a portion of his corps and a brigade of the 18th corps, assaulted and took the enemy's works on their right at dusk last evening. It was gallantly done. The troops behaved finely. We held our lines during the night, and shall move this morning again.

B. F. BUTLER, Major General.

General Butler to the Secretary of War. [Received 8.30 p. m., in cipher.]

HEADQUARTERS HALF-WAY HOUSE, May 14,
10 a. m., 1864.—Hon. Edwin M. Stanton, Secretary of War: General Smith carried the enemy's first line on the right this morning at 8 a. m.: square redoubts, upon which we are now bringing our artillery to bear with effect. Benj. G. Butler, Major General Commanding. WASHINGTON, May 14, 10.40 a. m. Mojor General Dix: An official despatch from General Sheridan, dated at Bottom Bridge, via Fortress Monroe, 13th, states that on the 9th instant, he marched around the enemy's right flank, and, on the evening of that day, reached the North Anna river without serious opposi-tion. During that night he destroyed the enemy's depot at Beaver Dam; three large trains of cars, numbering one hundred; two fine locomotives; one hundred thousand pounds of bacon, and other stores, amounting in all to one million and a half of rebel rations; also, the telegraph and railroad track for about ten miles, embracing several culverts; recaptured three hundred and seventy-eight of our men, including two colonels, one major, and several other officers. On the morning of the 10th he renewed operations, crossing the South Anna, at Grand Squirrel Bridge, and went into camp about daylight. On the 11th he captured Ashland Station, destroyed here one locomotive and a train of cars, engine house, two or three Gov-ernment buildings, containing large amounts of stores; also, destroyed six miles of railroad, embracing six culverts, two trestle bridges, and the telegraph wire. About 7 a. m. of the 11th he resumed the march on Richmond. He found the rebel Gen. Stuart with his cavalry concentrated at Yellow Tavern; immediately attacked him, and, after an obstinate contest, gained possession of the Brock turnpike, capturing two pieces of artillery and driving his forces back towards Ashland, and across the north fork of the Chickahominy, a distance of four miles. At the same time a party charged down the Brock road and captured the first line of the enemy's works around Richmond. During the night he marched the whole of his command between the first and second lines of the enemy's works on the bluffs overlooking the line of the Virginia Central Railroad and the Mechanicsville turnpike.

After demonstrating against the works, and finding them very strong, he gave up the intention of assaulting, and determined to recross the Chickahominy at Meadow Bridge. It had been partially destroyed by the enemy, but was repaired in about three hours under a heavy artillery fire from a rebel battery. Gen. Merritt made the crossing, attacked the enemy and drove him off handsomely, the pursuit continuing as far as Gaines' Mills. The enemy, observing the recrossing of the Chickahominy, came out from his second line of works. A brigade of infantry and a large number of dismounted cavalry arriving at this juncture attacked the divisions of Gens. Gregg and Wilson, but after a severe contest were repulsed and driven behind their works. Gregg's and Wilson's divisions, after collecting the wounded, recrossed the Chickahominy. On the afternoon of the 12th, the corps encamped at Walnut Grove and Gaines' Mills. At 9 a. m. of the 13th (yesterday) march was resumed, and encamped at Bottom Bridge. The command is in fine spirits. The loss of horses will not exceed 160. All the wounded were brought off, except about thirty cases of mortal wounds, and these were well cared for in the farm houses of the country. The wounded will not exceed 250; total losses not over 350.

The Virginia Central railroad bridges over the Chickahominy and other trestle bridgesone sixty feet in length, one thirty feet, one twenty feet, and the railroad for a long distance south of the Chickshominy—were destroyed. Great praise is given the division commanders, Generals Gregg, Wilson, Merritt, and Generals Custar and Davis, Colonels Gregg, Divine, Chapman, McIntosh, and Gibbs, brigade commanders. All the officers and men behaved splendidly.

HALF-PAST TWELVE, A. M .- A dispatch this moment received from Admiral Lee, reports to the Secretary of the Navy, that Richmond papers of yesterday mention the death of Gen. J. E. B. Stuart, "shot in battle." This, no doubt, happened in the battle with Gen. Sheridan. EDWIN M. STANTON, Secretary of War.

Congratulatory Order of Gen. Meade. "HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, 13, 1864.—Soldiers: The moment has ar rived when your Commanding General feels authorized to address you in terms of congrat.

"For eight days and nights, almost without intermission, in rain and sunshine, you have been gallantly fighting a desperate foe, in p sitions naturally strong, and rendered doubly to by entrenchments. You have compelled him to abandon his fortifications on the Rapidan, to retire and attempt to stop your onward progress, and now he has abandoned the last entrenched position so tenaciously held, suffering a loss in all of eighteen guns, twenty-two colors, and eight thousand prisoners, including two general officers. Your heroic deeds and noble endurance of fatigue and privation will ever be remembered. "Let us return thanks to God for the mercy thus shown us, andask earnestly for its con-"Soldiers, your work is not over. The enemy must be pursued, and, if possible, over-come. The courage and fortitude you have displayed renders your Commanding General confident your future efforts will result in Success "While we mourn the loss of many gallant comrades, let us remember the enemy must have suffered equal if not greater losses. "We shall soon receive reinforcements, which he cannot expect. " Let us determine then, to continue vigor ously the work so well begun, and under God's blessing in a short time the object of our labors will be accomplished. "Major General Commandiag "Official-S. WILLIAMS, A. A. G."

tured last evening say Lee admits a loss of 30,000.

The Petersburg Register, May 12th, says: "Gen. Walker, of Virginia, was wounded at Spottsylvania. He lost a foot. The enemy are certainly fighting with much desperation and nerve. Gen. Hays, of Louisiana, was wounded yesterday. Gen. L. A. Stafford, of Louisiana, died yesterday in Richmond."

"WILMINGTON, N. C., May 9.—The iron-clad Albermarle engaged nine of the enemy's gunboats and sunk one. The Yankee raiders have burned the bridge on the New river. The Virginia and Tennessee railroad has been destroyed. Also, the Dublin depot, with all the supplies, &c.—Averil's work.

"The Central Railroad was destroyed by the enemy at Beaver Dam, in Hanover." the enemy at Beaver Dam, in Hanover."

The Register gives the names of eighty-five captains and lieutenants killed and wounded. POSTAL PACILITIES FOR THE ARMY. Col. A. H. Markland, postal agent for the armies, who has been heretofore with General Grant in the West, so efficiently overlooking the postal arrangements in that quarter, left this morning for the headquarters with a large mail with a view to permanently establishing the postal facilities for the army. After the arrangements for the army are perfected, the routes and offices in that portion of the country are expected to be opened, and Col. Markland expresses the hope that the great Southern mail between this city and Richmond will shortly be opened.

Lieut. Parker, a gentleman well qualified for the position, will remain in charge of the mails here as heretofore.

BERMUDA HUNDRED, 8 p. m., May 13, via FORTRESS MONDOE.—The rebel prisoners cap-tured last evening say Lee admits a loss of

ARRIVAL OF WOUNDED.

Yesterday evening at 6 o'clock, the steamer State of Maine arrived here from Belle Plain, having on board 520 wounded. The majority of these were serious cases, but few of them being able to walk from the boat to the wharf. There were a number of Confederate wounded among them, one of them being a captain in a Virginia regiment. The steamer Connecticut arrived at an early hour this morning, bringing up 685 wounded, and were distributed among the various hospitals. They were in charge of Dr. Hood, and are composed principally of Hancock's men, who were heavily engaged on Thursday, but the most of them are slightly wounded. Among them were some twenty or thirty officers.

FINE TROOPS SENT TO REINFORCE GRANT. Among the troops passing through the city to-day to reinforce Grant, is the superb First Maine heavy artillery regiment (armed with Springfield rifles as infantry) eighteen hundred strong, of the best material possible; and the equally fine Seventh New York heavy artillery, nineteen hundred strong. Both regiments have been doing garrison duty in this vicinity, and their places have been supplied by some of the hinety days' troops.

GEN. BUTLER DISGRUNTLES THE CHIV-ALRY.

A dispatch from Fortress Monroe states that a large batch of rebel officers of high and low degree, taken by Gen. Butler, had arrived there loss small. The enemy have retired into three | under a colored guard specially designated by Gen. Butler for their escort. The rebel officers were terribly disgusted; and the darky guard were correspondingly delighted with the change of status, and "grinned all over."

> THE FREDERICKSBURG RAILROAD TO BE OPENED. The railroad from Aquia Creek to Fredericksburg, we hear, will be repaired immediately and .placed in running order. The engineer brigade left yesterday afternoon for that purpose.

> INSPIRITING! Could Lee hear the steady tramp of veteran troops passing through our streets Grantward, it would be as dispiriting a sound to him as it is inspiriting to all Union ears.

SKEDADDLERS SENT TO THE FRONT.
To-day three hundred and sixty-five skedaddlers will be sent back to Belle Plain, to be returned to their regiments.
